

Post-Transplant Consent to Share Anonymous Correspondences

I. PURPOSE OF THIS CONSENT

As you may have learned from your coordinator, donors and recipients may be allowed to correspond anonymously following transplant. These anonymous correspondences shall remain confidential and shared only between you and your donor or recipient, unless you have exchanged consents with your donor or recipient to release personal information and give written consent to share the correspondence you wrote more broadly.

NMDP<sup>SM</sup> is requesting your permission to share your correspondence with an audience outside of NMDP. NMDP occasionally makes this request when we identify a particularly compelling or sweet story that we think would help spread the word about NMDP's mission and/or recruit more diverse donors.

If you give us permission by signing this consent form, your correspondence, which may include a letter, artwork, or other types of correspondence, written by you (or your minor child) may be shared more broadly through platforms such as social media, websites, media interviews, TV/videos, or print materials. The correspondence may be shared anonymously or with your name attached, if you authorize us to do so.
